

Board of Directors

Kate Moriarty

Kate Moriarty currently serves on the Board of Directors for WCC. She was elected to the Board of Directors in August 2020. She is a Human Resources Business Partner at Ernst and Young for their Financial Services Consulting Organization. She has worked in HR for the financial and professional services industry for over 7 years. Kate works across all functional areas of human resources including performance management and development, compensation, organizational change and employee relations. Kate manages large scale projects to position businesses for growth. Kate has a master's degree in HR Management from New York University and a bachelor's degree in Leadership/Social Science from the University of Richmond.

Kate is passionate about diversity, inclusion, and equal opportunity in her HR career. She serves as a Diversity & Inclusion lead on her corporate team. She partners on initiatives that support under-represented minorities and females obtain leadership positions. At a prior role, she helped create diversity recruitment and leadership programs, increasing diversity at the firm. Kate also champions policies and programs that promote flexibility, wellness, and family care, with the goal to help employees not have to choose between their career and personal responsibilities.

Kate has always been passionate about volunteer work and giving back to her community, especially in service to women and children. She has held volunteer roles at LawHelpNY, public schools and women's shelters. Kate is excited about the opportunity to help empower women through Women Creating Change.
